

Lone Massacre Survivor Tells Tale Of Horror

CHICAGO (AP) — She tried to persuade the others to resist. They felt it would be safer to go along. As the quiet-spoken intruder led each of her friends to their deaths, she crouched under a bed and prayed.

The consul general of the Philippines said Corazon Amurao gave him this account Monday night of the Chicago massacre of eight student nurses. Miss Amurao was the only survivor.

It was the first account of the night of horror Miss Amurao had given, apart from reports to police which have been largely confidential.

Consul General Generoso P. Provino visited Miss Amurao, 23, an exchange student from his country, in the hospital room where the girl has been confined since the slayings last Thursday.

The only time she has left the room was for a brief visit Monday to the jail hospital where the man suspected of committing the slaughter was under treatment after attempting suicide.

Speck Under Sedation The man, Richard Speck, 24, was under sedation and the associate medical director of the jail hospital, Dr. William N. Norcross, forbade a face-to-face meeting. He said neither Speck nor Miss Amurao could start the strain, so she returned to her hospital bed.

Provino said the girl told him she and the other two Filipino nurses tried to convince the rest that they should gang up on the intruder and try to escape "but the American girls cautioned them not to do anything."

Provino reported the girls as saying, "that since the man told them he meant them no harm, 'Let's not start anything that will make this one do something crazy.'"

Miss Amurao, terror-stricken, hid under a bed and prayed as he took the other eight out of the room one at a time and strangled or stabbed them.

"She said the man did not appear violent and did not talk violently," Provino said. "The American girls therefore felt that 'maybe he is quiet and calm, he will remain quiet in the words of the consul.'"

Provino said Miss Amurao appeared to feel well. He said she was not in bed during his visit but sat in a chair or walked about the room.

Miss Amurao has not been allowed to see or talk with any but official visitors on orders of State's Attorney Daniel P. Ward.

Vandals Clean Up School Buses

DOWAGIAC (AP)—The Dowagiac school bus fleet will be clean and shiny again due to the efforts of the four teenagers who vandalized them.

The four broke into the buses, stole fire extinguishers and flares and smeared eggs throughout the interiors last week.

They were ordered by Municipal Court to wash and wax the entire fleet of 27 buses.

MINE RESCUE team rides canopy-covered cage, lowered by crane, into Calumet mine shaft where Ruth Ann Miller, 7, fell Saturday. The two-man teams, hampered by rotting timbers in the shaft, passed the 400-foot mark of the 5,000-foot shaft. (AP Wirephoto)

Calumet Tragedy Scene

Miners Seek Girl

CALUMET—Miners searched a tangle of debris caught on a timber 460 feet down in the shaft of the abandoned Tamarack No. 4 mine today for the body of 7-year-old Ruth Ann Miller.

All hope of finding the little girl alive had gone.

The search for the girl started on Saturday noon after she fell into the mine shaft while picking strawberries with her brother, Gary, 10. The area about the mine shaft was enclosed by a barbed wire fence, but the children entered the enclosure to search for berries among weeds growing about the sealed-off mouth of the shaft. The mine had been abandoned since 1931.

Gary said Ruth Ann found a small opening under the mouth of the mine shaft and approached it and the earth collapsed and plunged her into the shaft, with parts of the concrete cap falling in too.

If the girl's body is not found in the debris caught in the shaft it will be sought at the 500 foot level where there is a partial cap. Otherwise there would have to be descent further in the 5,320 deep shaft of the abandoned copper mine.

Recovery work has brought a rush of activity to the idle mine head. It resembled a construction scene today as efforts continued to find the child's body. Half of the thick concrete slab over the shaft opening has been removed and large timbers placed around the shaft opening to provide a platform to work on.

A 600-pound steel cage, constructed overnight by workers of the Calumet Division of Calumet & Hecla, Inc., carried two mine rescue workers into the shaft two or three times each hour.

Ruth Ann was the daughter of Mrs. Eugene Taylor, who has remarried since her divorce from John Miller, the girl's father. The Millers have two other children, Gary and Clyde, 11, who are living with the Taylors. The Taylors also have a six-month-old son, Michael.

Sanchez Gets 1 To 20 Years For Montalvo Death

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Albert Sanchez was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Mansfield reformatory Monday after he withdrew an innocent plea to a charge of second degree murder, and pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree manslaughter.

Common Pleas Judge John Connors Jr., sentenced the 22-year-old defendant in a courtroom crowded with prospective jurors. Trial was scheduled to begin Monday in the beating death of Eddie Montalvo, 2, whose body was found Jan. 15 on an abandoned farm in Monroe County, Mich.

The boy's identity was not established until relatives viewed the body some weeks later. The case received widespread publicity as authorities sought the name of the child. They called it "Little Boy Blue."

Sanchez was arrested in Texas on a warrant from Toledo charging him with the death of the boy last Nov. 29. Eddie was the son of Carolina Montalvo, with whom Sanchez lived.

RESCUE EFFORTS continued today to try to find Ruth Ann Miller, 7, who fell into the shaft of an abandoned copper mine at Calumet Saturday to almost certain death. The shaft is 5,000 feet deep. (AP Wirephoto)

Larry Rink Told Tests Show No Sign Of Cancer

CENTREVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Larry Rink of Centreville learned Monday, after five times having cancerous tissue from other persons transplanted to him in experiments, that tests showed no evidence of cancer remaining in his 140-pound body.

"We cannot say he is cured," said Dr. Ray Houghton, Rink's physician. "But if the disease had progressed normally, Rink would have been dead three months ago."

"At this time there is no evidence of any cancer in Larry," a little more than a year ago, the 21-year-old patient's right leg was amputated because of bone cancer.

Houghton read a letter to his patient, 6-foot-1 patient, reporting that X rays, laboratory tests and physical examinations at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., showed no signs of cancer. The institute declined comment.

The tests were taken early this month on Rink's third trip in five months to Roswell Park, where doctors had exchanged tumors between Rink and other persons.

Three persons involved in the transplant experiments died. Rink, jubilant, exclaimed: "I'm going to make it now, even if it comes back—I just know it."

"Now I'll get my new leg and then I hope I can find a good job and take care of my wife and baby."

Woman Killed In Cleveland's Racial Violence

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Gunfire punctuated rioting in a predominantly Negro neighborhood on Cleveland's East Side early today, leaving a 26-year-old woman dead and two men with minor bullet wounds.

Gangs made up mostly of teenage boys hurled fire bombs and smashed and looted stores.

More than 300 policemen—directed from a command post bus and aided by a helicopter—were involved in the six-hour effort to bring the widely scattered disturbance under control.

Three policemen were hit by bricks and rocks and treated at a nearby hospital for injuries that were not serious.

Police and newsmen reported they were shot at by snipers in the Hough area.

Police shot out street lights in the vicinity of East 75th and Hough to keep from being targets and ordered all occupants out of an apartment building there in a vain effort to find a sniper.

At least eight fires broke out—some started by fire bombs—and firemen trying to fight the flames were shot at and had to dodge bottles, fire bombs and rocks, police reported.

A gang of men cut a fire hose near 86th Street, where half a block of two-story brick and frame store buildings burned.

Killed by gunfire was Joyce Arnett, mother of three. A witness said Mrs. Arnett had been ordered into a building as police sought to clear the 73rd Street-Hough intersection and was shot as she leaned out a second-floor window and screamed for her children.

Williams Keeps Eye On Griffin Voting Records

By The Associated Press The No. 1 book on the reading list of G. Mennen Williams is not entitled Jerome P. Cavanagh—it is labeled "Key Votes of Sen. Robert Griffin, 1956-1966."

Williams, who is aiming his fire at Republicans more than at his rival for Democratic U.S. Senate nomination, feels he is getting valuable ammunition in his campaign from a large, black book crammed with nearly 100 pages on Griffin's votes in the House and Senate.

The loose-leaf volume outlines Griffin's votes during his five terms in the House and few weeks in the Senate. Griffin was appointed senator by Gov. George Romney last May to succeed the late Democratic Sen. Patrick V. McNamara.

In Flint Monday, the book's importance was made clear when Williams told a group of United Auto Workers Union leaders that Griffin "has a completely negative record" on key issues affecting labor.

The former six-term governor of Michigan said Griffin voted against anti-poverty programs, an income tax cut and reduction of the federal estate tax on automobiles.

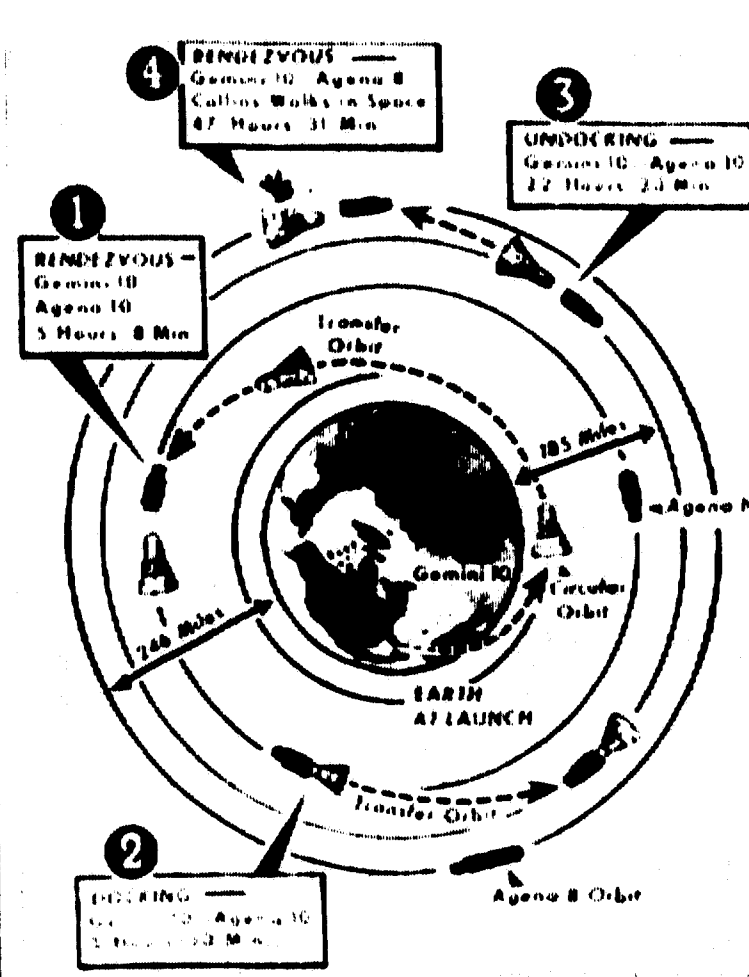

However, "You can't fault him on" his voting record on civil rights issues, Williams said.

He also attacked Republican Gov. George Romney's veto of a bill to eliminate the one-week period for drawing unemployment compensation.

Williams said Democratic State Chairman Z. Iton Ferency has an uphill fight in his battle for the governorship, although "if we get out and work, Ferency has a chance to unseat Romney."

Two Marine Platoons Hold Line In Bitter Viet Border Fighting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Two U.S. Marine platoons held out for four hours against waves of North Vietnamese troops just south of the 17th Parallel Monday while covering the withdrawal of the rest of their battalion.

The bloody fight cost the enemy about 500 dead or wounded, one Marine officer estimated. The 90 or so Leathernecks took heavy casualties but stood up against the overwhelmingly larger force until air and artillery strikes drove the North Vietnamese off.

Marine fighter-bombers dropped napalm as close as 50 feet from the Leatherneck positions to prevent them being overrun. Some Marines were injured in the strikes.

The savage fight was the bitterest action yet in Operation Hastings, which last weekend brought thousands of Marines and South Vietnamese troops into the steamy mountains more than 400 miles northeast of Saigon in search of a North Vietnamese division which allied intelligence says recently crossed the demilitarized zone between the two Viet Nams.

Despite the heavy losses to the two platoons, U.S. headquarters in Saigon said allied casualties remained light overall since the sweep began Friday. The official number of enemy killed rose to 226, up 58 from Monday's report. The Marines have captured three North Vietnamese and 68 weapons, the spokesman said.

In the central highlands, units of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division's 3rd Brigade battled a North Vietnamese battalion for three hours Monday less than a mile from the Cambodian border and 37 miles southwest of Pleiku. A spokesman said the infantrymen killed seven Communists.

While the fighting picked up against North Vietnamese units in the south, U.S. pilots kept up their attacks on North Viet Nam's oil reserves, hitting 11 storage areas scattered from 44 miles north of Hanoi to the Badon depot 65 miles from the 17th Parallel, which was struck for the second successive day.

The jets eluded 13 surface-to-air missiles within 45 miles of Hanoi and five miles of Hai Phong, a spokesman said.

Three Cyclists Die In Hit-Run Oregon Crash

MULINO, Ore. (AP)—Police have charged Robert J. Olsen, 34, Silverton, Ore., with hit-and-run driving in Monday night's traffic deaths of three young bicycle riders.

Olsen was arrested in Silverton about five hours after four boys were struck on a state highway in Mulino, about 20 miles southeast of Portland.

Bail was set at $5,500 for Olsen.

Those killed were Paul Segal, 11, Molalla, Ore., and Dennis Biddle, 14, and Benny Marvin Walsh, 12, both of Mulino.

Randy Fricke, 11, Mulino, was in satisfactory condition with head injuries.

Police said young Fricke told them the car hit the boys at high speed.

Fuel Shortage Makes Changes In Flight Plans

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Space scientists shuffled priorities this morning to salvage the most significant phases of the Gemini 10 mission, beset by a shortage of spacecraft fuel.

Astronauts John W. Young and Michael Collins, slept through a record-shattering orbit after a successful docking with their Agena rocket target and a hitchhike ride under Agena's power toward the next assignments of their daring mission.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesmen said there would be some revision of the program, but held to the belief major projects would be saved.

Next item on the planned schedule was a descent to a lower orbit to intercept the Agena 8 rocket carcass, left in a docking path to provide a second target in the skies.

Chase Used Fuel Rendezvous would be a fuel-consuming maneuver.

In the first eight hours after a perfect beginning, command pilot Young and pilot Collins achieved three spectacular space achievements including an altitude record of 476 miles.

For some reason, neither the astronauts nor the ground controllers could explain, they used an excess of fuel in catching up with the Agena 10 which preceded them into orbit by 100 minutes Monday afternoon.

The fuel shortage caused a rearrangement of the flight plan, wiping out two additional dockings planned today and raising a question whether Collins and command pilot John W. Young would be able to rendezvous Wednesday with another Agena left in space after the Gemini 8 flight last March.

Flight Director Glynn Lunney said early today that "we're working on the plan for today, looking at the fuel we have left to see what experiments we can conduct and the exact maneuvers we can make."

Achieve Major Goals Despite the fuel shortage, Young and Collins achieved the major goals of the flight—rendezvous and docking—in the first hours of the flight that started late Monday from Cape Kennedy.

After a thrilling 103,000-mile chase across the skies, Gemini 10 caught an Agena sent up 100 minutes ahead of it, then registered history's second linkup of two space vehicles.

The exercise was climaxed brilliantly when Young and Collins fired the powerful engine of the docked Agena—the first time the rocket of one satellite had been used to maneuver a manned space ship.

New Altitude Record

For nine startling seconds the Agena spurted a fountain of flame and sent Gemini 10 shooting to a record altitude of 476 miles, eclipsing a 397.5-mile mark held by two Soviet cosmonauts.

The burst of power briefly jolted the astronauts out of their weightless world, subjecting them to a force of about one G—equal to the gravity force on earth.

"That was really something," exclaimed Navy Cmdr. Young when the big 16,000-pound-thrust engine ignited. "We got a real spectacular tail-off."

Air Force Maj. Collins added: "When that baby lights up, there's no doubt about it."

More excitement lay ahead today, with extra-vehicular activity by Collins a highlight.

About 4:15 p.m. (EST) Collins was to conduct a stand-up excursion, opening his hatch and poking the upper half of his body into space to conduct scientific and photographic experiments.

Space Stroll Tomorrow Collins plans to step outside the spacecraft Wednesday for a 55-minute stroll on a 50-foot lifeline. If Gemini 10 is able to rendezvous with the Gemini 8 Agena, he will walk over to it for some experiments.

The only other disappointment was the failure of Young and

Chicago's Police Artist Tells Of Method He Uses

CHICAGO (AP) — The police artist who drew an amazing likeness of a man charged with killing eight student nurses—working only from a witnesses' description — said today the knack is to capture facial expression.

Otis Rathel's sketch was worked up during a two-hour session with student nurse Corazon Amurao, who had under a bed while her friends were methodically slain.

The sketch was strikingly similar to a photograph of Richard Franklin Speck, arrested Sunday and accused of the killings.

Rathel gave this explanation of his technique to a newsman. First he asks the witness for the race, height, weight and general physical description of a suspect. This gives a clue to the size of the face.

"Then I have the witness describe the face in his or her own words. If there are doubts, I use my own face as an example. I ask if the face is as large as mine, or larger."

"When I compare with myself it gives me an idea of what the witness means by large or small. Different witnesses have different meanings."

"I ask for the over-all shape of the face, hair style, hairline, the eyes, nose, tip of nose, bridge of nose. Is the bridge flat, pinched? Is the nose hooked? Has it been broken?"

"The lips? Are they large? How are they shaped? The eyes? And so on, feature by feature."

Rathel said age is important. "How old do you think I am?" he asks. He is 44. "This gives me knowledge of how good a judge of age a person is. Age is important in a face."

From these details, Rathel tries to visualize a face—and makes a preliminary sketch. "Then the real job of the witness begins. He has to tell me what to change."

Working with pencil and eraser, he goes over the face feature by feature. And that's where expression comes in. "Everybody has a different expression. That can be what gives them away, makes them distinctive."

"The expression sometimes is the only impression the witness has — individual features may be vague in his mind but he recalls the suspect's 'look'."

Did Miss Amurao get an impression? "She said the suspect appeared to be a gentle type of person, that just to look at him you wouldn't think he'd harm anybody."

The Amurao session took two hours. Some take up to five.

Improving Our Hosting

The Upper Michigan Tourist Association has created a peninsula-wide advisory committee to work with its new officers in the development of a more dynamic program of tourist business promotion in the Upper Peninsula.

The committee could hardly do a better thing than to advise the Upper Peninsula public to take a new look at tourism as a means of improving general income in the U.P.

Because tourism builds no smokestacks for its own purposes the enormity of its economic impact upon any community that does well by it must be judged by some other means than those we use to identify most business volume.

We all know that there are a heck of a lot of tourists—a tourist is anyone away from home, really—and that they spend a lot of money, but the totals of this traffic are so huge that they're hard to believe. The Upper Peninsula's disbelief in the tourism potential has cost it a lot of income in recent years. We have not made a maximum effort nor had a maximum result and the new command of the Tourist Association is going to try to spark it up. Virtually every study of the Upper Peninsula reports that tourism is one of the area's greatest possibilities for economic development.

The area is unique in its undeveloped state, the beauty of its natural setting with a boundary of three of the Great Lakes, and its spectacular history. The first white men were coming into the Upper Peninsula when the English were founding Jamestown. It sent its Indians to the Revolution and it was a battleground of the War of 1812. The first mineral rush in America was to the Copper Country. There can be a marker at almost every bend of the highway in the Upper Peninsula marking a historic site.

The markers aren't there yet, of course, that has been one of our omissions. The State of Michigan's feeble historic effort has marked only a few sites.

State tourist promotion began in Michigan in 1929 with a grant by the Legislature to each of the four regional tourist associations. The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau represented the U.P. in that arrangement.

It died of public neglect and financial anemia and was succeeded by the Upper Michigan Tourist Association in 1960. It has been having a struggle getting enough public support to meet the ever-growing demands upon it to supply recreation seekers with information about the Upper Peninsula. It's basic problem is that the U.P. keeps its old way of regarding the tourist business as something for the motels and gas stations, and not a huge industry which won't go in volume to any area which offers only motels and gas stations.

Tourism accounted for sales in excess of $960 million in Michigan in 1965, according to the State Tourist Council. This year it will top the billion dollar mark. These sales involve the direct employment of about 130,000 Michigan workers, and indirectly of some 450,000 additional jobs.

The economic impact of the tourist business has been expanding about 10 per cent annually for a decade and tourist dollars not only provide employment, they lighten the tax cost of providing local and state government services. Tourists, for instance, are paying off a big part of the cost of the Mackinac Bridge.

They make no demand for education or welfare services and yet they pay the state's gasoline taxes and sales taxes, buy our hunting and fishing licenses. In 1965 tourists paid $65 million in direct state taxes alone, of which about $25 million went to local school aid support for which the tourists got no direct benefit.

Tourism is everybody's business. We all share its benefits and we should all share the support of its promotion so that we can prosper from it even more.

The Doctor Says:

Animals Spread Undulant Fever

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

Q — Through a blood test and a skin test four years ago my doctor made a diagnosis of undulant fever. Is there any danger to my family or friends?

A — Human carriers of undulant fever or brucellosis do exist. They shed the germs in their urine, but transmission of the disease from one person to another is extremely rare. The natural reservoir of infection is in cattle, sheep, goats and hogs.

Complete recovery is the rule and treatment for more than a year is rarely necessary. Good results have been reported in victims who have been treated with a combination of two antibiotics, streptomycin and tetracycline.

Q — Is it true that ranchers can spread undulant fever? Can the germs be transmitted from them to human beings?

A — Undulant fever is a disease of farm animals. The human victims are usually farmers, veterinarians, meat packers or drinkers of unpasteurized milk. I have never heard of a case being transmitted by a hamster. If it occurs it must be extremely rare.

Q — A recent article stated that 3 per cent of the population has undulant fever. What are the symptoms of this disease?

A — The proportion of the population with undulant fever has dropped with the almost universal use of pasteurized milk and milk products in this country. The disease involves the entire body and starts, often insidiously, with headache, aching in the joints, fever and easy fatigability. In some victims there is a dry cough, and in some there is vomiting. Since these symptoms are common to many other generalized infections, the diagnosis must be based on laboratory tests.

Q — What forms of insanity are inherited? Can they be curable?

A — Since the proportion of persons who have schizophrenia, dementia praecox or split personality and manic-depressive spells with relatives who also have these diseases is higher than the proportion of such persons in the total population, a hereditary factor is presumed in these diseases.

In the treatment of schizophrenia shock therapy, psychotherapy, tranquilizers and surgery (frontal lobotomy, in which white nerve fibers in the frontal lobe are cut) may be beneficial but they rarely bring about a complete cure. Persons in an acute manic (highly excited) state often have to be restrained. When this phase subsides, a severely depressed inactive state may follow during which efforts must be made to prevent suicide. In these persons, also, treatment may be of some aid. — Secretary General U. N. benefit but a cure cannot be guaranteed.

Magic In A U. P. Cedar Swamp

Memories Of Trout Stream

By LEE SMITS

A full lifetime ago Michigan had an incredible trout stream — if it could be called a stream. It meandered, with no perceptible current, through second-growth cedar swamp. It was clogged with fallen timber. The bottom was thin black muck. A fisherman who attempted to wade would drop instantly out of sight. Getting a line out to fishable water from the bank was virtually impossible.

A skinny kid, trying to fish this morass in the daytime was completely frustrated; yet the water, which appeared suitable only for bullheads and turtles, held a fine population of native trout. The kid watched rises that caused his heart to bump, yet he had only bacon in his frying pan that evening.

Next day came inspiration. He noted a sizable log, lying on the bottom in three or four feet of water. He cut a lengthy sapling, leaving a trimmed branch at one end, and as the darkness fell he edged his way on the log, propped himself with the sapling crutch and, after the water quieted, started to cast, using a light surface spinner.

There was a strike for almost every cast. Now and then a feeding trout rose within splashing distance of his cold knees. Owls hooted. Night-hawks zoomed. Scary sounds that couldn't be identified came from the depths of the swamp.

A time or two the kid nearly fell off the slippery log. When he had caught half a dozen to 12 inch fish he backed cautiously to the soggy bank where he again needed inspiration; how to get through the dark jungle to his pup tent on high ground?

His companion on the expedition was an Irish setter, an animal that had showed no sign of sporting interest except an insurmountable determination to fight porcupines. Since the dog seemed eager to get back to camp, the kid attached a length of line to his collar whereupon the setter took charge, leading the kid skillfully through the jungle to an old road that led to the tent.

Having discovered the secret of taking trout from this forbidding stretch of water, the kid made repeated trips during the season, returning to the family summer cottage with catches that amazed his elders, although the fish, exposed too long to mid-summer warmth, were hardly fit to eat.

A lesson had been learned; the advantage of night fishing, for almost any kind of fish in any kind of water. Also the value of advance study, planning, preparation for fishing after dark.

What about that incredible patch of trout water in the cedar jungle? Long ago it was rarely fished. Hemingway discovered it after the skinny kid's explorations. The creek isn't shown on standard maps. It evidently was spring fed, two or three miles in extent, with no spawning gravel in evidence. It might have been completely fished out, half a century ago.

An old-timer finds that it is unwise, generally, to return to the hunting and fishing grounds of the old days. The changes in the wildlife scene are generally changes for the worse. Therefore the temptation to take a detour in a northern county to inspect the swamp creek is repeatedly rejected. It couldn't possibly have the romantic appeal that held a teen-ager spellbound while he caught more innocent, uneducated native trout than he could make proper use of.

LBJ: No Hero Image

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One year ago two respected Washington observers broke into print almost simultaneously with sweeping summaries of the criticisms then being heaped on President Johnson.

They set the whole town talking. That same week, Johnson named his top aide, Bill D. Moyers, as press secretary in what was widely taken as a move to alter his image.

Yet today matters seem only to be worse. Less than a majority of the people, the polls say, approve either his general performance or his conduct of the war in Viet Nam. Few Democratic figures announce proudly they are wearing the LBJ brand.

The assaults upon the President are so vigorous and so constant that it is hard now to recall 1965 and the avalanche of his Great Society triumphs.

His combat with the press — and that is what it is — is relieved only by temporary truces called press conferences, which seem merely to feed a mutual estrangement. Reporters who necessarily accompany him to Texas feel as isolated as if they were in Saigon.

When Harry Truman fell to low estate, sympathy stirred in many hearts. Lyndon Johnson gets almost none, perhaps partly because he does not look as if he needed it.

Like any president, he labors hard for his niche in history. There may be times nowadays when, under steady hammering, he imagines that history may prove his only durable friend.

With a national electorate strongly Democratic, it is conceivable Johnson might be re-elected in 1968 by millions who accept him not only without affection but with diminishing admiration as well.

There is a danger in the prospect that the President and the nation may be found barely tolerating one another.

For all his vaunted links to men of valued judgment beyond the White House gates, he lives today in a kind of splendid isolation.

A man acknowledged to have prodigious talents, great energies, an incalculable dedication to work, Johnson must be baffled to see these things dismissed almost as of no account.

In 1966 he presides over a nation which, abroad, is fighting its most puzzling war and which, at home, seethes with the unprecedented social ferment of the Negro revolution. He keeps his footing.

Man of action and accomplishment though he is, the President nevertheless searches in vain for the garments of the hero. Other names—Roosevelt, Eisenhower, Kennedy—ring in his ears. There are no great Johnson cohorts.

Even the abilities for which he is celebrated have, in the end, hurt him. In the beginning such was said of his appreciation of the uses of power. Now, power and Johnson are often coupled as an unhappy coalition.

Many Americans, to judge from their recorded comments, miss in Lyndon Johnson the beacon of idealism which makes the stern uses of power understandable and endurable. Too frequently, they identify him only with its meaner applications.

On rare days, the President has discovered and voiced the conscience of the country's soul. His June, 1965, address on Negro rights at Howard University was such a day. For a single moment or two, the same incoherence was felt in his words to Negroes meeting in conference on those rights a year later. But the times are less.

If there were more common, less surely would be heard of the President's personal shortcomings. Talk of them would be burned away in the fires of inspiring leadership.

Americans, questioned often, make plain they want that fire of spirit, not just cold accomplishment.

President Johnson has years in which to find the fire's unfading source. If he does not, dreams of history's hoped-for accolade may supply his only comfort.

The Escanaba Paper Co. began using atomic energy in gauging, control and inspection operations, technical director, George Eastin, said.

It was just one of those days for Phillip LaMarch, owner of Phil's Auto Sales, 828 N. 21st St. First someone lifted 10 gallons of gas from the garage, two wheels, including the tires, from a 1948 station wagon were stolen and a speedometer from a '47 car and four gas caps were hoisted.

25 Years Ago

A fire believed to have been caused by defective wiring gutted the office and destroyed part of the roof of the Universal Cinder Products plant on M 35 causing damage unofficially estimated at $4,000.

From a second lieutenant in the 26th Infantry to brigadier general, serving as United States Air Attache in London—that is the story of Ralph Royce, who is remembered by Escanaba residents as the leader of the Arctic patrol, which landed here a decade ago in the middle of winter on the ice of Bay de Noc.

Ann Landers

'Ridiculous Mane' Ought To Be Clipped

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I went to the airport to meet friends arriving from Mexico City. While waiting, I noticed a young man in uniform, his sobbing wife seated next to him. She was holding a tiny infant in her arms, and there was also an older woman—presumably the soldier's mother.

The woman turned to me and said, "Isn't it terrible that young families have to be broken up this way?" I replied, "Yes, it's very sad." Then, I asked, "How old is the baby?" She answered, "He was born 10 days ago."

I said, "Don't you think it is a little foolish to bring a newborn baby to an airport?" The woman got red in the face and shouted, "That baby is seeing his father off to war! Don't you understand?"

I said, "A 10-day old baby doesn't see ANYTHING. Don't YOU understand? Infants belong at home, not in public places with millions of germs."

My husband yanked my arm and pulled me to the other side of the room. He gave me a terrible bawling out for "speaking out of turn."

He made me feel like a fool. I'd like your views on this.

ADA

Dear Ada: Are you the manager of the world—or just the airport? Your husband was wise to remove you from the scene of what might have developed into a hair-pulling fight.

It's true that a 10-day-old baby doesn't see anything, but if the parents want to bring him to the airport that's their business, not yours.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet you are sick of receiving letters about boy's hair. But please handle just one more for a tussled dad of 41.

Our 15-year-old son has gone in for the long look—and I do mean long. My wife and I haven't said much because we don't want to make it a cause celebre. The boy's grandmother was here yesterday and said something to the boy about his "ridiculous mane."

Our son said styles come and go and this was the style right now and you can't really tell anything about a guy by looking at his hair. Right or wrong?—JUST ASKING

Dear Just: Wrong. You can tell a great deal about a guy

by looking at his hair. One thing you can tell is if he believes in soap and water.

Long hair may be the style but some of the kids I've seen look like fugitives from the board of health. I wish crew cuts would come back. And the sooner the better.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a career girl on the shady side of 30. Frankly I'm plain looking and overweight. But I do have some sense in my head, and I could make the right man happy. I am not talking about marriage. I'm not one of those women who thinks I MUST be married or I'm dead.

I am dating a really nice man but the best thing we do together is eat. I'm an excellent cook and Georgie loves to eat at my place. It's run to slave over a hot stove for someone who appreciates it. And Georgie does.

Problem: Georgie's grammar is terrible. He will never get a better job if he doesn't do something about it. I've enrolled in a night school course in psychology. I want Georgie to come with me and take English but he refuses. I'm beginning to sound like a nag. Any advice?—DOT

Dear Dot: Yes. Cut it out. He doesn't want to go to school with you. He just wants to eat with you.

A nuclear gauge that measures snowmelt accurately may provide quick flood and avalanche warnings. Developed by scientists at the United States Department of Agriculture with the radioisotope cesium-137, the gauge can measure density of a 10-foot snowpack in only 10 minutes. Previous methods required one hour for a comparable measurement.

Boy On Tricycle Injured By Car

James Meyer, 4, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meyer of Old State Road, today continued to be listed in serious condition at St. Francis Hospital where he was taken after being struck by a car on Old State Road Monday afternoon.

The youngster rode his tricycle into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Wendell Erickson, 47, of 531 Mounted Rte., city police reported.

The boy's injuries include fractures of both jaws, lacerations, compound fracture of the left leg, possible internal injuries, and laceration of the upper right thigh.

Escanaba police reported that the left front fender of the automobile struck the boy, with a front ridge of the fender striking the boy in the head as he rode on his tricycle. The car was reported by witnesses to be traveling at reasonable speed.

Mrs. Erickson had driven into Old State Road from the Erickson driveway. She drove east toward S. 23rd St., about two blocks distance.

Officers said Mrs. Erickson told them that Larry Lee Leach, 12, was riding a cart on one side of the roadway and that John DeGrand was walking on the other side. Suddenly the boy on the tricycle appeared in the center of the road. The grass was long beside the road and he may have been hidden by it, she told police.

The injured boy was removed to the hospital by ambulance and surgeons worked for several hours in emergency treatment of his injuries.

McNamara Has Foot Injury, Cancels Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A foot injury has forced Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to cancel a weekend meeting with West Germany's Defense Minister Von Hassel, the Pentagon said today.

McNamara had planned to meet with Von Hassel in Bonn Saturday and Sunday for a discussion of U.S.-German problems before going on to Paris to attend a NATO defense ministers' conference Monday and Tuesday.

Whether the secretary will attend the Paris conference is uncertain.

Huron Mt. RR Is Foreclosed

MARQUETTE — A decree of foreclosure on the Marquette & Huron Mountain Railroad Co. was granted Monday in U.S. District Court by Judge W. Wallace Kent.

The foreclosure was requested by the U.S. Government on behalf of the Area Redevelopment Administration which loaned the M&H $195,000 in 1963.

Kent ordered that the foreclosure sale be held "anytime after Aug. 20."

The Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad Co., holder of a first mortgage on the M&H, reportedly has first rights on claims against real property.

The LS&I loaned the all-steam scenic line $60,000 in 1963.

Developers of the $300,000 venture were John A. Zerbe and associates, who formed the Presque Isle Development Co. and carried on M&H operations through a second allied company, Thunder Bay Recreation, Inc.

The 23-mile line, operated mainly as a tourist route, utilized the unused Lake Independence Branch of the LS&I which terminated at Big Bay.

It was the nation's longest all-steam railroad.

Ben Hardesty Heads Pflueger

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Shakespeare Co. of Kalamazoo has purchased 89 per cent of the stock of Pflueger Corp. of Akron, Ohio, a rival fishing tackle industry firm, a spokesman said here Monday.

Henry G. Shakespeare, president of the Kalamazoo firm, said Pflueger will continue to run under its own name, as a separate firm.

The new president of Pflueger, Ben Hardesty, is the former manager of Shakespeare's golf division.

Recreation Boom Is Problem Forest Fire Hazard Grows

The U. S. Forest Service and Michigan Department of Conservation turned to the public today for extra caution in forest fire prevention as the forest hazard rose in the woodlands after prolonged drought and recreational use of the forest reaches record volume.

"In some areas of the Hiawatha National Forest, at this western end," said Lawrence Haack, fire staff officer of the forest, "we have had very little or no rain for a month. The Rapid River Ranger Station of the forest has recorded only 0.34 inch of rainfall in a month and the normal fall for the period would be well over an inch.

"We have had only scattered showers on the Rapid River, Munising and Manistique ranger districts of the forest in the past month and we have been having fires. The latest were on the Sturgeon River and at Lake AuTrain on Sunday. Both were held to small acreage by quick fire-fighting efforts, but the condition of the entire forest (it extends from Escanaba to Sault Ste. Marie) is very dry and hazardous.

Recreation Booms

"Recreational usage is far above normal, especially in picnicking and bathing, because of the heat and this adds to the danger of runaway fires. We can look for more fire danger from activities of blueberry pickers, but the crop is expected to be very short this year because of the dry weather. We should have had a good crop on the Stonington Peninsula in our controlled burn areas, but the drought has hurt that prospect.

"The forest is so dry that even rutty roads are powdery in heavy forest cover, a very unusual condition indicating extreme dryness."

All the fire watch towers in the forest are being manned daily until 6 p. m. when the hazard diminishes, and because of low visibility the tower watch is being supplemented by air detection patrols. Jon Thorin flew detection flights Monday for the Forest Service and the Manistique Ranger District has had flights for several days.

"We are restricting issuance of burning permits," said Haack. "It is all right to burn trash in trash burners, but the Conservation Department or the Forest Service should be notified so the towers know the cause of the smoke."

Public Help Urged

Foresters asked the cooperation of the press, radio and TV in bringing to the public the high danger in the forests and the need for extreme caution with fire. Smokers and recreationists have caused 25 forest fires in the Hiawatha this year, burning over 220 acres since March.

The fire season began early and is the worst since 1959.

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Nelson, 1412 7th Ave. S., have returned from Baraboo, Wis., where they visited with their daughter, Rev. and Mrs. Phil Anderson. Prior to the visit, they spent six weeks in Sweden, visiting with relatives in Sunne, Varnland, Smaland, Stockholm and Gotchberg.

Judd and Harland Yelland of San Francisco are visiting here with their mother, Mrs. Edith Yelland, 410 S. 12th St.

Funeral services for Mrs. Walter Goodman will be 11 a. m. Thursday. Friends may call at the Kefauver and Jackson Funeral Home after 2 p. m. Wednesday. Included among her survivors is Mrs. Vella Schuller, Saginaw, her daughter.

Black Muslim Protest Fails

MARQUETTE — A petition alleging denial of religious liberty by a member of the Black Muslim sect at the Marquette State Prison has been dismissed in U. S. District Court here by Judge W. Wallace Kent.

Charges by four other inmates that their civil rights were being denied were referred to state courts in two instances; a third case was postponed, and a fourth declared "no cause of action."

Robert Jones, 31, Detroit, said he and other members of the Black Muslim sect were denied (1) a place of worship and (2) visits by Muslim ministers at the prison here.

Perry M. Johnson, Marquette, assistant deputy warden, testified the Black Muslims were denied no liberties allowed other religious groups in the prison.

He said up to 1957, restrictions were placed on Black Muslims because their creed openly advocated racial hatred and acts of violence. After a meeting with Muslim leaders, they agreed to drop the inflammatory teachings to prison inmates.

Johnson said the Black Muslims had asked to meet in the prison yard, and this has been denied.

"Generally, Black Muslim literature is allowed within the prison, and correspondence of the sect's members with Leader Mohammed Ali isn't prohibited," he noted.

Haelterman Heads Floriano Post

HERMANSVILLE — Julius Haelterman has been elected new Commander of the Leo Floriano American Legion Post, succeeding Larry Reid.

Reid called his year in office "an excellent one" as membership climbed to 110, only four short of the all-time high of 114.

The Post made plans to participate in the U.P. Volunteer Fireman's Convention at Menominee Aug. 4-5-6 and also at the Blessing of the fleet later this month at Menominee.

Luci, Pat Plan For Texas Dream House

WASHINGTON, AP—Luci Luci said he will not hold any Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent immediately after their marriage. Texas after then Aug. 6 wedding. "He has pretty much saved time because we haven't been going places, and we feel as though we can make it with what we both have right now," Luci explained.

Nugent will work toward his master's degree in business administration. Luci said she will continue undergraduate studies but will not resume her nursing studies. She said she'd like to take typing and shorthand, which are the two greatest virtues for a woman to have.

Luci said the house, for which they'll buy furniture after their honeymoon, has a living room, two bedrooms, "none of them very large but they suit our needs," a little denette, copper-lined kitchen with a copper stove, but no "free-box" yet.

The duplex, or two units, means the young Nugents will have very close neighbors. When it was suggested they might be the Secret Service, Luci said she'd have to ask them. The Secret Service referred the question to the First Lady's press office, where it was noted that giving out such information "defeats the purpose of the Secret Service."

Mrs. Johnson said she wanted the wedding day to be "something beautiful" for Luci to remember and to share with family and close friends.

New Stalemate Keeping Union, Airlines Apart

WASHINGTON (AP) — The strike that clipped the wings of five major airlines wore on today after a government spokesman declared 11 days of negotiations "a venture in futility."

"This dispute should have been resolved long ago," added Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds after reporting a new stalemate in negotiations between the airlines and the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

But Reynolds called for a new attempt today toward settling the strike which is adding more than 65,000 workers' cost to the airlines some $7 million a day and overloading the rest of the nation's transportation system.

"This is not one of the happier ventures in collective bargaining," Reynolds said after dashing his earlier expressions of some progress in Monday's talks.

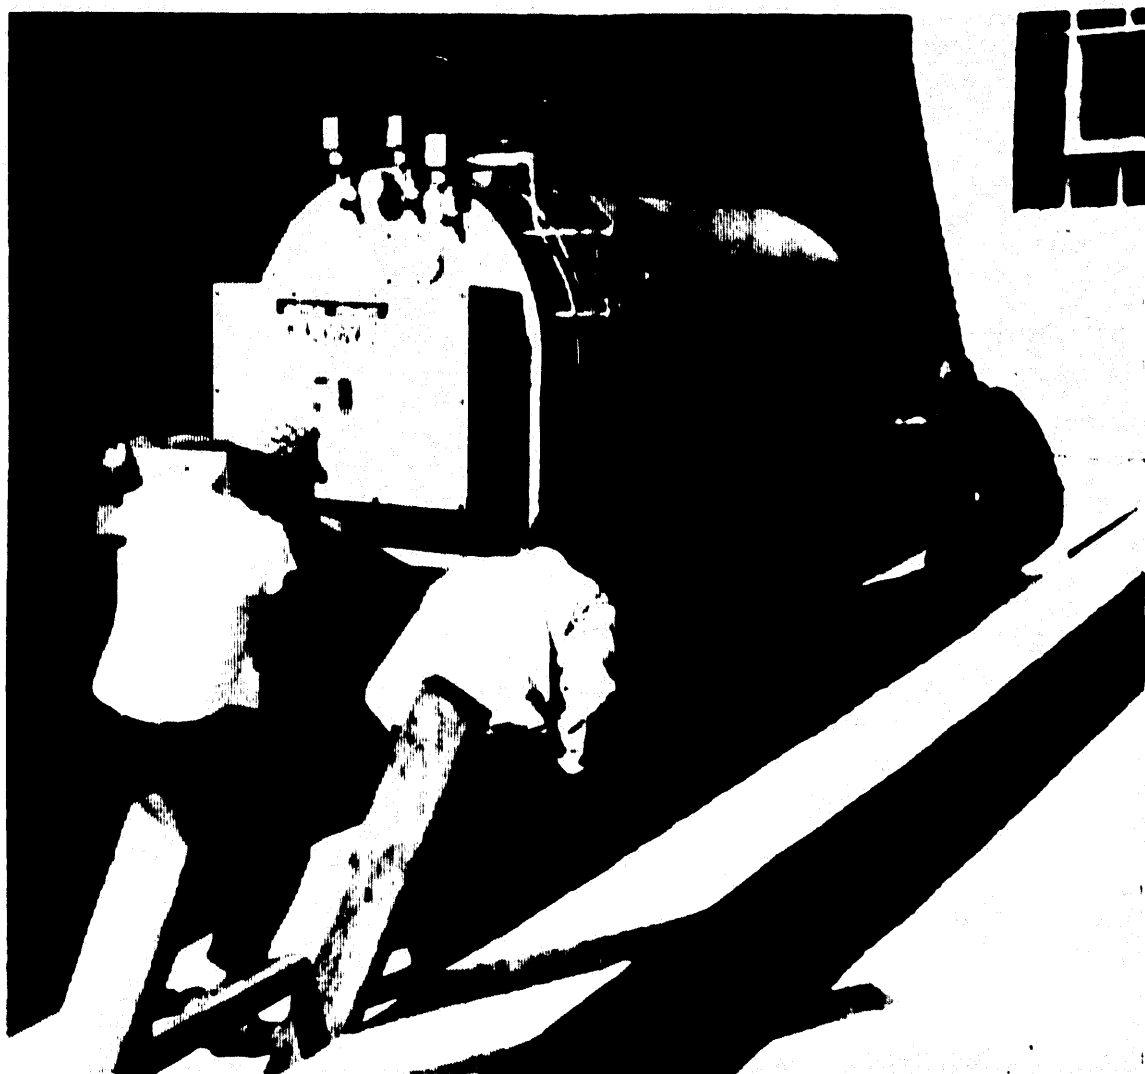

"Today was a futile effort," agreed chief airline negotiator William J. Curtin.

"We agreed to disagree," said union vice president Joseph W. Ramsey.

Girl Assaulted; Youth Bound To Circuit Court

David Martin, 21, of the Bay View Location, today was charged with indecent liberties, a felony, on complaint to authorities by a 15-year-old Escanaba girl. The alleged offense occurred early today.

State Police of the Gladstone post arrested Martin, who was lodged in the Delta County Jail until his appearance before Justice Ross Davis of Gladstone shortly before noon. Judge Davis said that no determination based on his appearance has been made as yet.

ANOTHER STEP in the installation of a new boiler at the Delta County building was completed Monday when the boiler was lowered into place on a new foundation at the rear of the building. Work is being done by Erling Arntzen, contractor, and Moersch & DeGnan, plumbing and heating contractors. A new boiler was needed because of the planned cutoff of city steam which currently is used to heat the building. The new Kewanee oil burner will be fueled from a 4,000 gallon tank, which is being dug into the parking lot at the rear of the County jail. The boiler will be housed in a small, brick addition to the building and the new system connected to existing pipes. No major alterations in the building are planned. (Daily Press Photo)

Jobless Dip Triggers It

Gov't Aid Cutoff Fought

UPCAP has asked the Economic Development Administration to hold up dropping of 6 of the 15 Upper Peninsula counties from the eligibility list for economic development help.

The redevelopment bar was invoked on Marquette, Alger, Menominee, Ontonagon, Houghton and Keweenaw counties because their unemployment rates had dropped below the minimum 6 per cent for eligibility.

In a letter to Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor — the Department of Commerce administers the EDA program — Chairman Harold Dettman of UPCAP and Joseph Tuma, executive director, stated that the de-designation of the six counties worked against the long range interests of area redevelopment as conceived by EDA.

"We don't deny de-designation is in accordance with strict interpretation of the numerical standards set up for eligibility," they wrote, "but we don't feel this kind of interpretation is the most appropriate for the counties in question."

"In Alger and Marquette counties — a combined labor market area — unemployment was consistently more than 50 per cent higher than the national rate for the years 1962-64, but in 1965 the rate dropped to 5.6 per cent, only 0.4 per cent below the 6 per cent guideline. This difference hardly seems significant to us."

"In Houghton - Keweenaw counties (another combined labor market area) the numerical differences are not this close, but although unemployment has dropped, there were 350 jobs fewer than in 1962."

"In other words, an area is being de-designated in 1966 even though there has been a drop in total unemployment over the previous four years. Surely this runs contrary to the nature of redevelopment regardless of what the unemployment figures say.

Other factors which also should be considered such as hidden unemployment, underemployment and the fact that so much of the decline of unemployment in the western part of the Upper Peninsula depends on the expansion of a single copper mine at White Pine.

"We are concerned about losing benefits, but our biggest concern is that de-designation raises havoc with economic planning. The Governor of Michigan has recommended that the Upper Peninsula be treated as a single economic district for the purposes of the Economic Development Act, and UPCAP has submitted an application for technical assistance to the entire district."

"It was our understanding that one of the purposes of the new Economic Development Act was to move beyond the concept of planning for small areas and instead to encourage a broader view and planning on a larger scale. We don't see how de-designating six Upper Peninsula counties can further this aim. It sets up a new barrier."

Collins to calculate accurately their rendezvous maneuvers with star-sightings and a spacecraft computer — something that was being attempted for the first time.

The flight started flawlessly with a double launching from Cape Kennedy Monday afternoon. An Atlas darted off its launch pad right on schedule at 3:40 p.m. and hurled the Agena 10 into a near perfect circular orbit ranging from 183 to 187 miles.

A Titan 2 thundered skyward 100 minutes later to propel Gemini 10 into a planned elliptical path ranging from 100 to 168 miles.

Delta County Girl Scouts will begin their annual encampment at J. W. Wells State Park Sunday.

Dates for the camp program were changed from July 28-Aug. 2 to Sunday, July 24, to Friday, July 29.

Mary Douglas, director of camping program, said that troop and establishing camping programs are being combined to make better use of staff available.

Registration Sunday will be from 1 to 3 p.m. and scouts are asked to bring their health forms. Camp will close Friday, July 29, before lunch.

Marine Snubs El Toro Offer

EL TORO, Calif. (AP) — Marine Pfc. Daniel Rombyer, who while in Viet Nam received a Christmas package of dogfood, apparently has passed up the chance to spend his first day of home leave in the city from which it was sent.

Officials of the city of Oceanside, Calif., its Chamber of Commerce, and its beauty queen, spent Sunday awaiting Rombyer's arrival. But he didn't come.

Instead, say officials here at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Rombyer and his parents apparently set out for their home in Jackson, Mich., after he flew in from Viet Nam.

Marine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Rombyer, spent three days in Oceanside last week as guests of the Chamber of Commerce. And the city had invited Rombyer to stay a week, all expenses paid.

"Everyone wanted to do what they could to make amends," said John A. Steiger, chamber president. The package of dogfood had contained an unsigned message from a critic of the Viet Nam war: "Eat well animal."

Basic Offense Foremost In Gilmer's New Plans

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—Harry Gilmer has some very definite ideas about what he wants out of his Detroit Lions this year and the development of a basic offense is foremost among them.

"There are certain plays—the end run, the trap play, etc.—which are basic to every offense," the Lions head coach said Monday on the eve of the official start of practice. "We hope, through the encouragement of the use of audible signals, to instill a certain confidence in the players with regard to these basic plays," Gilmer explained.

"It's a little difficult to explain without going into a lot of detail," Gilmer continued, "but we want to get to a point where every player will immediately realize his new duties when the play is changed at the line."

Few Changes Planned

"These basic plays are sound against any defense. Every team has them but it's the execution of them that counts," Gilmer added.

Gilmer, starting his second season at the helm, said he planned to make a few changes among the rookies who have been practicing for a week.

"None of the moves mean that a particular player failed his first try," Gilmer emphasized. "We just have a number of boys who came in as two-way players and we want to be certain we get a look at them both ways."

One of those mentioned was Johnny Robinson, an end from Tennessee State.

"We've heard that Robinson was a good receiver and he hasn't done anything but show that he can catch the ball. But we also want to try him at the corner back on defense."

"From what we've seen so far, I'd say he has some real good moves back there, too," Gilmer added.

Thompson Signs

Gilmer said that he wants to give No. 1 quarterback Milt Phipps a lot of playing time but added that he also has to "prepare a man for the job as No. 2 quarterback."

George Izo, Tom Myers and Karl Sweeten are expected to wage the battle for that job.

The Lions announced the signing of defensive back Bobby Thompson Monday, leaving 12 veterans unsigned as practice opened.

All of the players, signed or not, will practice with the team. Still unsigned are linemen

Henry Halts Pirates

Short Relief Job Is Best

By The Associated Press

"If you're going to relieve," says Lindy McDaniel of the San Francisco Giants, "the only spot is short relief."

McDaniel is a short relief pitcher. So is teammate Bill Henry. But Henry's short relieving and McDaniel's aren't the same. Henry makes an even more minute specialization out of it.

The veteran left-hander played his short short relieving Monday night as the Giants edged Pittsburgh 3-2 and moved to within two percentage points of the National League-leading Pirates.

Manager Herman Franks called on Henry in the eighth inning after Roberto Clemente doubled home the Pirates' second run against starter Gaylord Perry. Henry retired Manny Mota on a fly ball, then departed as Frank Lanza came on.

Pitcher Stings

The appearance was Henry's 23rd this season, and his one-out performance was the 10th time he's pitched only one-third of an inning. In fact, in those 23 games, Henry has pitched only 16 1-3 innings. McDaniel and Lanza, on the other hand, have averaged about two innings per appearance.

Henry, however, has allowed only two runs all season so when it comes to short short relief, there aren't many who could top him.

After Henry left in the eighth, Lanza came on and retired Jose Pagan on a foul pop, leaving Clemente at second with the tying run.

In other National League games, Philadelphia blanked Los Angeles 4-0, New York swept Houston for the second straight day 4-1 and 6-3, Atlanta edged Cincinnati 9-8 and St. Louis nipped Chicago 7-6.

In the American League, Baltimore beat Chicago 5-3, Cleveland whipped California 6-1 and Al Lopolow and Ed Kranepool singled in the first two runs of the rally.

Larry Jackson stopped the Dodgers on five hits for his fifth straight victory and second straight shutout. Philadelphia, meanwhile, cruised for three runs in the fifth inning, sending Sandy Koufax to his fifth defeat against 16 victories.

New York scored three runs in the eighth inning for the opening-game victory against Houston. Billy Murphy singled in the first run, and Roy McMillan knocked in the other two with a single.

Byron Browne drove in five runs with two homers for Chicago, but St. Louis got three-run homers from Tim McCarver in the sixth inning and Mike Shannon in the seventh.

Sawmill Players End Series: Will Return In 1967

The Sawmill Players have completed presentation of "Young Ben Franklin," a play authored and directed by Faye Parker, leading children's playwright, and announce they will return again next summer.

Other plays had been scheduled this summer but attendance, though increasing each week, has not been adequate to finance additional productions.

In a letter to the Manistique branch office of the Press Miss Parker expressed appreciation for the warm welcome and help extended to the Players, and said the Players were grateful for the many kindnesses received "from so many fine people in the Upper Peninsula."

"We love this part of the country and plan to return next summer with a full schedule of plays," she said.

"We deeply regret having to bring down the curtain because the series we have to produce this year is beyond our budget at the present time. Royalties for most of them would cost $50 a night, and other expenses must be met. Our attendance has not warranted continuing them."

"The crowds who have come to see our plays have been enthusiastic and we feel that next year with enough pre-planning our series of live theatrical events will again please the Top-Of-The-Lake audiences as well as the tourists who visit this area."

"Again our heartfelt thanks to our many new friends," Miss Parker wrote.

She and Tom Smith have been co-producers of the shows which made successful debuts here this summer. Audiences have expressed favorable comment and wished more would come to see the Players.

The play by Miss Parker of the early days of Ben Franklin was a fine dramatic work which brought hilarious laughter, and gave renewed regard for freedom and those who helped establish it in America.

The first presentation was a delightful enacting of "East Lynne."

Quarantine For Cereal Beetle Reaches Bridge

LANSING (AP) — The European Cereal Leaf Beetle, first discovered in Southern Lower Michigan in 1962, has spread nearly to the Straits of Mackinac — placing the entire Lower Peninsula under quarantine.

State Agriculture Department announced Monday.

Despite quarantine and spray programs to control its spread, the beetle has eaten its way northward through Michigan grain fields. The quarantine area has been expanded gradually.

The latest jump — to the southern end of the Mackinac Bridge — added the last 23 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties to the quarantine area.

Under terms of the quarantine, a certificate is required for the shipment of certain commodities out of the area. Included are small grains, uncleaned grass, and forage crop seed, hay, straw, fodder, sod, used harvesting machinery, used crates, bags or boxes and articles of conveyance.

North Central Pontiac Service Will Be Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board denied Monday a request by Pontiac, Mich., and its chamber of commerce for continued air service at Pontiac by North Central to end service after July 31 at both Pontiac and Cadillac-Reed City.

The board previously had approved an end to service at the two points and its decision was affirmed June 17 by the U. S. Court of Appeals for the 6th Circuit. In accord with that decision, North Central would have ended service on July 19 but the line requested an extension through July 31.

Earlier this month, the city and chamber sought an indefinite extension of service pending board action on the community's petition to authorize Pontiac-Chicago and Pontiac-Cleveland non-stop service by North Central. It was this request for an indefinite extension which the board denied Monday.

'Lansing March' OK On Employee's Time Says DeWald

LANSING (AP) — State workers may take part in the labor holiday planned for Aug. 9 by the Michigan State Employees Union as long as they do it on their own time, the state personnel director said Monday.

The union said it plans a "March on Lansing"—actually a parade around the capitol—to protest wages and working conditions.

Robert Grosvenor, union director, called on Gov. George Romney to close all state offices from 9 a. m. to noon that day. Romney's office said he had not yet received the request.

Franklin DeWald, personnel director, said: "Our rules provide that employees willfully absent from work for the purpose of inducing a change in conditions of employment shall be suspended or dismissed by the agency for whom they work." But, he noted, "we have never disciplined employees for peaceful picketing or demonstrations provided they were done on the employee's own time."

A union spokesman said 8,000 of the state's 26,000 Civil Service workers are members of the union. DeWald said the union represents fewer than 6,000 state workers.

Half Year Record

NEW YORK (AP) — American Can Co. scored record sales and earnings in the first six months of 1966, Chairman William F. May said Monday. Earnings were $34,595,000 compared with $28,060,000 in the same period of 1965, or $2.02 a share compared with $1.63.

In Service

Technical Sergeant Robert G. Vanderlinden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Vanderlinden of Gladstone, has been awarded the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Robins AFB, Ga. Sergeant Vanderlinden received the medal for meritorious service as a KC-135 crew chief at K. I. Sawyer AFB. He was cited for his outstanding skill, knowledge and job proficiency. The sergeant, who attended Ishpeming High School, is a veteran of the Korean War.

His wife, Kathleen, is the daughter of Mrs. Ada Starns, who resides on North 10th St. Escanaba.

Briefly Told

Terry VanBroeklin, N. 17th St., Gladstone, escaped injury when his car went out of control in loose gravel and rolled over on County Road C 35 in Wells Township at 5:10 p. m. Monday, it is reported by State Police. Officers said VanBroeklin told them the accelerator of his car stuck and he reached down to loosen it when he lost control.

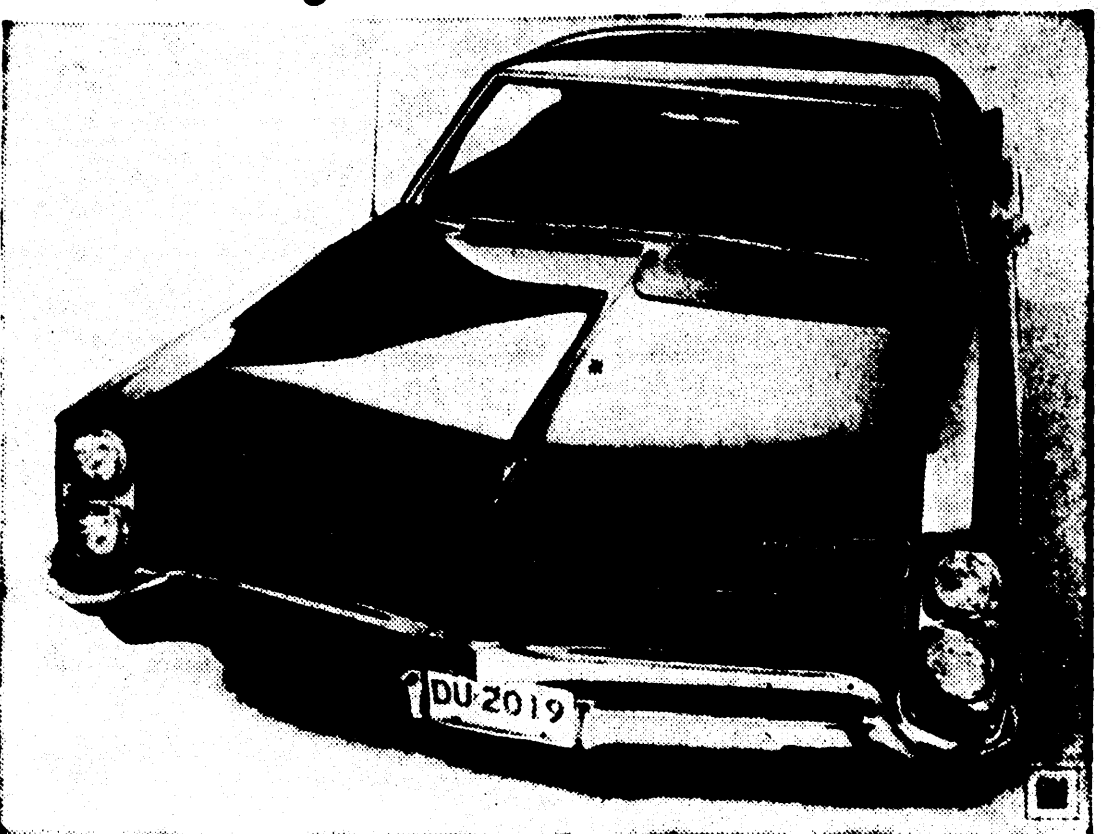

State Police of the Gladstone post have issued traffic court notices to Charles Russell, Northland, for no proof of insurance; Elsie Millette, 1112 3rd Ave. S., disobeying a stop sign; and Richard Kallenburg, Vienna, Va., no registration on person.
